LITTLE JENNIE.

Among the many beautiful gems of poetry, this is perhaps the most singularly touching in its sweet and tender simplicity. The author's every thought and action on earth were as pure and chaste as those of the angels, to whom her spotless soul goes.

Little Jennie, list how sweet
Sound the patter of her feet
On the floor;
How the voices of the children will come,
Our darling little unaged bird—
Sing the more.

Little Jennie, laugh with glee,
Would thy life could always be
Sweet and light,
I wonder if the deer will come,
To our darling little one,
Now so bright.

Could we do without her smile,
Singing, dancing, all the while—
Sweet to see;
Voices and laugh, and angel face,
Could another fill her place?—
Not to me.

Love will be gained from all care,
Love will be gained from each care,
Yea awhile;

Still, oh, God, our Jennie keep,
From the dangers of life's deep,
Free from guile.

FRAGMENTS OF THE EARLY HISTORY OF OHIO COUNTY.

BY H. D. TAYLOR.

CHAPTER X.

Like most of the Western countries we have traces of, this portion of Kentucky having been settled at a long day prior to the advent of Europeans, by a different race of people, flint-arrow heads, hatchets, pestles, and other implements made of stone and fragments of crockery ware, composed of a curious composition, were numerous many years ago; in fact, those flint-arrow heads served our early settlers a valuable purpose, being the principal means of supplying the old-fashioned fire locks with flints.

Mounds mostly containing human bones, were quite common. On many of these mounds the timber was as large as any of the adjoining forest. Some years ago while leaping up a road near the bank of the Muddy creek, at the bottom of the ditch, which was some two feet deep, I found some charcoal and ashes were found for the space of some two hundred yards—evidently showing that this had been a favorite camping ground, where some savage tribe had once hunted and perhaps fished, but how long ago none can tell.

Another good story is told of a lad named John, who, full of fun and frolic, was always ready for a practical joke upon a man or beast. On a cool, frosty morning John was going on an errand to a neighbor's house; the path led along a level ridge. At a sudden turn in the path he saw the back of a wolf; it having its head down and then being in a slight depression, so that it did not see John, who, having no gun, hid behind a tree immediately by the path. What a glorious bit of fun thought he, in scaring the wolf out of his skin. The wolf came trotting on, and out sprang John, right before its nose, with the loudest laugh, before it had scarcely scolded, his first motion was to give John a snap, which penetrated to the bone, on each side of his leg, and then ran as hard as wolf could run, whilst John stood looking alternately at the speed of the wolf and at the bleeding leg, and finally uttered the sage remark: "Well, what a fool I was!" in which opinion the reader will no doubt concur.

It is now a subject of regret that this grave had not been thoroughly examined by scientific men, and a full skeleton produced of this semi-giant race. Nothing like fortifications, or other war-like relics have been found in this section; the mounds so far examined, all containing bones.

The early pioneer and Indian fighter perhaps strode over those humble depots of the dead, without care or reflection, or perhaps with a feeling of triumph; but not so with the sensitive youth when rambling through the forest in after years. It would be difficult to imagine the strange feelings that would spring up in his mind when one of those mounds obstructed his course, a thrill of fear and reverence for the dead, would turn his steps aside and no longer "whistling for want of thought," strange vagaries and curiosities would arise, such as "How long have they lain here in their graves?" What manner of people were they? Whence did they come and whither have they gone? Do their spirits now mingle with the spirits of the pale faces, or do they chase the phantom bullfro

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

For State Treasurer,
JAMES W. TATE,
of FRANKLIN COUNTY.

For State Senator,
SAMUEL E. HILL,
of OHIO COUNTY.

For Representative of Ohio County.
W. D. COLEMAN.

SAMUEL E. HILL.

We this week place the name of SAM. E. HILL at the head of the paper, as the Democratic candidate for State Senator from this, the Eighth Senatorial District, composed of Butler, Ohio and Muhlenberg, and, in doing so, we feel a pride in knowing that he is the most popular man with all classes in the county that could, under any circumstance, have received the no nomination. He is intellectually the inferior of no man in the District. As a stump speaker, he is perfection itself—entertaining and instructive, with frequent flights of fancy that are eloquence of the brightest order. He is a man of deep, searching thoughts, and profound judgment—a Democrat in the strictest sense of the term—just and incorruptible, and will make one of the very best Senators the District has ever been honored with.

Mr. HILL, from his characteristic sociability and kindness of heart, has a host of friends among all classes and all parties, and numbers, who do not as a rule affiliate with the Democratic party, will vote for SAM. E. HILL because they know the man; and to know him, is to respect and confide in his ability as a Statesman, for Mr. HILL has all the qualities that constitute a Statesman, and should this District be so fortunate as to send him to the Legislature, they will never regret the wisdom of their choice, for he will make a mark on the floor of the Senate chamber that years of time will be inadequate to obliterate, and his constituents can point to with honest pride and admiration of their wise judgment at the polls in August, 1877. Then let us rally around our Captain, as he unfurls the banner of Democracy, with "justice to all men" as our battle cry, and as the eloquence of his logic is buried into the ranks of the enemy, let us push on with irresistible impetuosity—carrying everything before us, until we plant our banner upon the ramparts, and crown our leader with victory.

The political slate for the August election is now made up. HILL and COLEMAN are the men selected, and it is too late to be spending time in finding fault or objecting to the choice of the conventions. That time is past, and it is now the solemn duty of every Democrat to rally to the support of the nominees. Democrats, do you want your county represented by a Republican? Do you want Ohio county's vote cast for a Republican for United States Senator? Do you want to endorse the Radical Presidential steal? If so, then murmur, object, find fault with the action of the conventions and the nominees, and you will certainly succeed in securing these ends. Do you want the county represented by Democrats? Do you want Ohio county's votes cast for a Democrat for United States Senator? Do you want to utter your earnest protest against all the frauds, corruptions, bad legislation, carpet-bag rule, Bradlyson, &c., enacted and brought about by the Republican party, then go to work and sell up such a majority for HILL and COLEMAN on the first Monday in August as will astonish the Republicans as well as yourselves. Lay aside your little petty preferences or prejudices, rise above all such things, and view the matter from a higher, grander, nobler stand point, and do your duty like patriots.

Growth of the Abolitionists—Abolition to ignore it.

We are in a critical situation. The Democracy of Ohio county should speak openly and unhesitatingly for the good of the party and welfare of the people. Decide to ours unless we cry aloud and spare not. We want a man that can harmonize the discordant element, and the Democracy are determined that their endorsement for Tilden shall not be a defeat, be called in question. Was not Tilden fairly and squarely elected, and did not Ohio county let her voice be heard last November in his behalf; and now shall we prove recreant to our duty and suffer defeat in the pending issue for legislative houses? God forbid! Let the various committees come together and have a general consultation, in order that harmony may be restored. Our motives should be higher, nobler than that of self aggrandizement. We should not care for a gain for the sake of himself, his wife or for any personal consideration whatever, but we should care in view that ultimate success, and crowning jewel for which the Democracy has ever contended. An insatiable desire for office against a willing mass cannot win. We don't want defeat and we must not have it; the sound judgment of the people demand us to act and let's do it Prode no pecto. A candidate who can by logic and eloquence, entwine the masses is imperatively demanded—we have such an one, we can and must, else defeat is inevitable. I have ever loved and cherished the principles of democracy, I imbued it from my earliest infancy and there is no one more willing to work for the victory than I; but I deem it useless to work for an impossibility. I know the feelings of many leading Democrats, and unless Mr. Coleman will yield to the wishes of the people, the Democracy is defeated. I am not interested in any individual's success, but I am deeply concerned for principle and for the success of the party in this trying hour, then fellow Democrats lets act wisely and judiciously and put forth a mass of sterling merit, one that will carry our banner outward and upward, and true to the line, and who in the end will enter the halls of Representative, conqueror, yes, more than conqueror I ask in the name of reason and common sense, can we not harmonize the party? We can. The question is, will we do it? E. F. TILFORD.

Proceedings of the Senatorial Convention held in Morgantown, June 18th.

MORGANTOWN, Ky., June 12, 1877.

The Democrats of Butler county met in convention at Morgantown on Monday, the 11th inst. Proper resolutions endorsing the call for a Senatorial call for a District Senatorial Convention to meet at Morgantown on the 13th; appointed delegates to said convention, and received their pledge of fidelity to the principles of the Democracy party. In the evening Capt. Sam. E. Hill, who is the only Democratic candidate who proposes to submit his name to the convention, addressed the people, making a sensible talk. The Captain is not a demagogue. What he says comes from the great depth of his heart. He defines his position so as not to be misunderstood by any one. The Captain was a brave Federal soldier, who honestly fought for what he thought was for the best interests of his country. He did not engage in the conflict because he thought to the victors belong the spoils. So when the war was over, he united with the Democratic party, and has fought in the political field for the success of free principles as valiantly as he did on the battle field for the success of the cause he espoused.

The writer of this wore the "gray"—fought under the ill-fated flag of the Confederacy, but when the war was over, he buried the sword, and it was natural for him then to advise a brave and chivalrous enemy, so to speak, more than a cowardly puclianous friend. We want men now who will do right for the love of the right; men who, forgetting the past, will, with a steadiness of purpose, work for the success of right and oppose wrong, whether it has its source in the Confederate or Federal elements. Such a man is Sam Hill, or his tongue is a falsehood and his face a cheat.

Hon. Julian N. Phelps, who is also a candidate (Democratic Independent) made a speech in which he put himself squarely on the Democratic platform, repudiated Green-backers who have been claiming him as their champion. Mr. Phelps is well known in Butler as an honest man. He has served his county some six or eight times in the Lower House of the Legislature, and has been prompt and faithful. His mistake this time is in making an independent race against a man who is unusually popular with his party.

I commenced this letter yesterday, but did not finish it. Now, on the 15th, I have to report that the Senatorial convention met to-day and formally nominated Capt. Sam. E. Hill. The resolutions adopted were short, pledging fidelity to the Democratic doctrines and support to the people. The number who attended the convention was not large, but all the counties were represented, and the greatest harmony prevailed. Now, let the Democrats go to work, lay aside all petty jealousies, if there are any, and for one time let's do our whole duty. Our object and aim is for the best interests of the country. Let us so act that we will then gather around our standard new friends.

One Texas Letter.

BELTON, TEXAS June 5th.

In company with Dr. G. H. Miller, of Tennessee, S. A. Wierman and John Martin, of Maryland, and A. D. Leach, formerly of Ohio county, Kentucky, as our guide and teamster, armed with Spencer rifles and six-shooters, we left Round Rock on the first of the month for a tour of inspection through the border counties of Texas. We were very much surprised on the evening of the first day by meeting up with a dozen or more of the Tonkaway Indians on their way to Austin to see the Governor of the State. The Tonkaway tribe, which was once quite powerful, is now almost extinct. They have a sad and dejected appearance, and their history is calculated to leave this impression on their faces. They have always been friendly to the white man, and have rendered valuable assistance in contending against the wild and uncivilized tribes. Not expecting to see anything of the kind, of course every man was to his gun and ready to meet the supposed enemy. Capt. Wierman took shelter behind the wagons, while the remainder of the force fortified behind a stone fence by the roadside. The Indians appeared somewhat frightened at our war-like demonstration, but I signified to them to know if they were friendly, at which they grounded their arms and motioned us to come up. We advanced, and tried to converse with them, but could not understand anything they said. The chief only signified his intention of going South toward Austin by the motion of his hand, after taking a friendly smoke by each of us taking one puff at the pipe, passing it around. We parted, thus leaving the great principles that fell from the immortal Jefferson still lives, and that Coleman is even or a little ahead.

Editor Herald:

The farmers in this locality have been very busy for the last week and a half setting tobacco. I am of the opinion that the farmers would make a great deal more money if they would only turn their attention to the raising of small grain and stock instead of raising so much tobacco.

Corn looks well and is growing fast since the rain.

Rosine is still improving. J. F. Lewis will soon have his new building completed. These boys, perhaps we will have an opportunity to trip the fantastic toe, to our joy. M. S. Englund has a new dwelling house on lands which will soon be completed. There are also other houses being built here. We are looking every day for the machinery for the Rosine mills. When we commence grinding we will hear from us more often.

Hon. H. B. McHenry and wife were in town Wednesday.

L. T. Cox took a flying trip to Louisville.

John Vaught brought a crowd of ladies from Hartford yesterday, to listen to Bro. James Austin preach, but owing to illness he failed to deliver his sermon. Come again.

Habits.

Correspondents will please mail their communications so as to reach us as early as Monday evening. Communications received latter than this will have to lay over until next issue, which, in many instances, cause the article, in part or whole, to become stale. We receive many good letters Tuesday evening after the paper is up, which we cannot possibly get in. The mail leaves on early Wednesday morning that we are compelled to have the matter set, and the forms made up Tuesday night. We will be pleased to receive communications from all parts of the country giving the local happenings of the week, and especially of the crop prospect.

Monday returning Wednesday.

Frank Felix, Jr., who has been attending school at Garnettville, Mingo county, Ky., returned home Tuesday. Frank is a nice young man, and deserves a great deal of credit for the interest he is taking in trying to locate himself.

A sad accident occurred a few days ago. It seems that Tommie Ezell, a son of W. W. Ezell, about ten years old, and John Y. Tilford, son of E. F. Tilford, about the same age, were wrestling and John Y. got a little the best of Tommie and fell on Tommie's arm and broke it about half way between the elbow and wrist. He is recovering fast. Parents, I would advise you to teach your children not wrestle, for it is very dangerous.

West Providence Items.

WEST PROVIDENCE, KY., June 15, '77.

I have seen several very interesting letters from this neighborhood. Seems old West Providence wants to get her name up. Suppose you give her another puff, if you think these few lines worthy a place in your paper.

The present condition of the crop is splendid, and future prospects flattering. There has been more tobacco set this and last week than was known before in this community. Farmers seem to be encouraged, and think there is a prospect for better times in the future, if tobacco will only bring a good price, which they think it will if they will only stop that European war.

B. L. Thurman, agent for Foreign Mission, honored our church with a call last Saturday and Sunday, and preached a very interesting and eloquent sermon to a large congregation. Subject—"For me to live is Christ." He spoke of our missionaries in a foreign land, that we should sustain them with the necessities of life. After the sermon, a collection was taken up and $50 was contributed to the benefit of the Gospel in a foreign land.

PROCLAMATION

BY
I. P. BARNARD,
PRINCE OF MERCHANTS,
BEAVER DAM, KENTUCKY.

TO MY FRIENDS AND PATRONS, and the Public generally, I have bought out Barnes and Taylor and have moved into the larger and more commodious store house, formerly occupied by Samuels and Barber where I have received, and am now putting up one of the largest and most complete assortments of stocks of

Dry Goods, Clothing, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps,

NOTIONS,

Ladies' Dress Goods,

Gents' Furnishing Goods.

Groceries, Quesware, Hardware, &c.

EVER before offered to the people of the

GREEN RIVER COUNTRY.

I BOUGHT MY GOODS AS LOW AS THEY CAN BE BOUGHT BY ANYBODY, and am determined to sell them the same way.

COUNTRY PRODUCE

AT MARKET PRICES,

Taken in exchange for goods. All I ask is an inspection of my goods and prices, and then if I do not sell you what you want, it will be my own fault.

IF FAIR DEALING, HONEST GOODS AND

Small Profits Merit Your

APPROVAL, then I am sure of your trade.

BEEVER DAM, KY.

I.P. BARNARD.

SAVE YOUR EYES.

OUR PEBBLE SPECTACLES

And Eye Glasses are the best for failing sight. Cut and polished from the "Real Stone," they are perfectly transparent (will cut like a diamond). Being harder than the glass, they receive a finer polish and always retain it. One pair carefully suited to your eyes will last as long as five pairs of the best glass, besides preserving the sight almost unimpaired at that time. By our new system for testing the sight, we are enabled to suit any eye so accurately that no injurious effects will follow. We repair Spectacles and Eye Glasses, and insert Pebbles or the best Glass Lenses in old frames. Our Bi-Focal Spectacles are for old people who require spectacles to see far off as well as near by only one pair being required. To persons who cannot call on us we send our new illustrated Price List which shows how to order.
